Program Learning Outcomes

Employers expect graduates to:

- Demonstrate the following career essentials: effective communication through writing, speaking and listening, mathematical competency, effective problem solving, technology competency, professionalism and global awareness. (MATC College Specific)
- Integrate scientific information and translate research into practice. (Program Specific)
- Practice beliefs, values, attitudes and behaviors for the professional nutrition and dietetics technician level practice.
- Develop information, products and services to individuals, groups and populations.
- Deliver information, products and services to individuals, groups and populations.
- Apply principles of management and systems in the provision of services to individuals and organizations.